SEVENTH TO FIRST DAY.

Change Was Made at Beginning of New Dispensation.

The question has doubtless arisen in the minds of many, why the Sabbath was changed from the seventh to the first day of the week? From the Old Testament we find that the seventh day was always the Sabbath with the Jewish nation. Indeed, the commandment says distinctly, "The seventh is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God." In the New Testament we find no command given to make the change from the seventh to the first day of the week, and yet the Christian church everywhere observes the first day of the week as the Sabbath. The question then naturally arises, Why was the change made? Was it made with Divine sanction?

The first question to be settled is, "Was anything to prevent a change?" Anything either in the law itself or in the command that demanded the seventh to be kept continually as the Sabbath? Looking at the command we read, "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work, but the seventh is the Sabbath." "The Seventh is the Sabbath." What seventh is this? Is it the seventh counting from the time God began his creating work? If so, man began his life by keeping the Sabbath, for he was created some time during the sixth day. Is it the seventh from the day man was created? If so, then man's Sabbath could not fall on the same day of God's resting, which is the very thing to be commemorated by our keeping the Sabbath. It is not the seventh rather the day that follows six days of labor? "Six days shalt thou labor—but the seventh is the Sabbath." The seventh, the day that follows the six days of toil. It commemorates God's resting after six days of creating work. Hence to us the command is work six, rest one—the one following the six work days.

The spirit of the command is that one-seventh of our time must be given to God. Six days for our own employment, one to keep holy for God. Not the eighth or ninth or twelfth, but the seventh is the Sabbath—one day out of every seven, one-seventh of your time. It is evident then that the keeping of the first day of the week fulfills both the letter and spirit of the law just as fully as the keeping of the seventh day.

Again, there is nothing in the nature of the day itself to prevent a change. One day is no more intrinsically holy than another. The thing that hallowes the day is the setting it apart for a sacred purpose. This must be perfectly evident when we consider that on account of the shape of our earth no two nations observe precisely the same day. While it is day here it is night on the other side of the globe. Clearly then it is the spirit of the law we are required to obey, and the spirit of the law is one-seventh of your time belongs to God—one day out of every seven.

The second question that arises is, "Was there anything that called for a change?" Clearly there was. The central figure of the Old Testament prophecy—the coming Christ—had appeared. The shadows were giving place to the substance. The types and figures were giving place to the great anti-type. The sun of Judaism was now setting and a new and more glorious era was beginning to dawn. As everything peculiarly Jewish was about to be removed it was eminently proper that there should be a change of day, as well as of dispensation. As the day was employed to signalize the resting of the creator from his first work—the work of creation—and as he had now finished his second, and even greater work of redemption, and had entered upon his second rest it seems peculiarly appropriate that this new purpose should be grafted upon it, so that, without in the least interfering with its original purpose and design it might also ever stand as a testimony of the resurrection of our Lord and Savior. The change of day has in no way affected the sanctity of the Sabbath save to add a new and peculiarly sacred thought. So now with each return of the Sabbath we are reminded not only of God's rest in his creating work but also of our Savior's rest from His glorious redemptive work.

Now, what are the facts in the case? The first and great fact that meets us is that our Savior rose on the first day of the week. Of His ten recorded appearances after the resurrection five were on that first day. His next appearance was one week later on the first day of the next week. So far as the record goes He never appeared on the seventh day. Both by His resurrection and appearances He seems to have utterly ignored the seventh day—the Jewish Sabbath—and given pre-eminence to the first day, breaking bread, i. e., to celebrate the Lord's Supper. So, too, that apostle commanded that collections be taken in all the churches on the first day of the week. Evidently then, that was the day appointed everywhere for service.

Again, Paul in his journey tarried several days at Troas and proceeded then on the first day of the week, when they came together to break bread, i. e., to celebrate the Lord's Supper. So, too, that apostle commanded that collections be taken in all the churches on the first day of the week. Evidently then, that was the day appointed everywhere for service.

Once more, it is an undisputed fact that from the time of the apostles to the present day the church has observed the first day of the week as the Sabbath. The earliest records show that the churches even during the lifetime of the apostles observed the first day. There is a chain of history from the days of the apostles to the present time and nowhere is there the slightest evidence to prove that any individual or church council decreed that change. With these facts before us we are driven to the conclusion that the change of day was made by the apostles in compliance with the Master's command.

A Starting Test.

To save a life, Dr. T. C. Merritt, of No. Mahopany, Pa., made a startling test, resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes, "A patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had ordered a course of the excellent for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and has not since relapsed." "Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and Kidney troubles. Try them. Only sold at Leitner's Drug Store and Johnston Drug Store."

Editors Held Up.

ST. LOUIS, May 18.—Sixty members of the Northwest Missouri Editorial Association, coming to St. Louis from St. Joseph, were "held up" in the famous "Blue Cafe" near Kansas City, by one of their number.

Will E. Williams, of St. Joseph, unnoticed by the others, donned a mask, and with a formidable looking, but empty pistol marched into the cafe and ordered the editors to hand over their cash, passes and other valuables. They complied with alacrity and at the next station began sending telegrams home asking for money. They did not learn of the hoax until they arrived at Union Station here, when their property was restored to them.

A Chinaman's "Howdy."

In China, the customary greeting is "How is your liver?" If Rydale's Liver Bitters were as well known there as in some parts of America, the answer would be, "My liver is all right; I use Rydale's Liver Bitters."

Letter from Greens.

GREENS, May 19.—I hold in my hand a Confederate States Almanac for the year of our Lord 1864, published for the trade by Burke, Boykin & Co., Macon, Ga. It contains 24 pages of its usual size. The general make up is of course excellent. It appears from the following item copied from the third page that there was some rivalry among the Almanac makers.

"Robert Griër died May 4, 1848. Notwithstanding the fact that this people insist on having almanacs made by Griër, and strange to relate, Griër's almanacs are still published and ignorant people believe the celebrated almanac maker had something to do with the calculations. But he has not. He has gone where they cannot make almanacs. We ask these lovers of Griër's almanac to look on the title page and see who makes the calculation. Not Griër, certainly."

It contains an advertisement of a monthly paper for "Boys and Girls" at $1.00 per year. The "Christian Weekly Index" at $1.00 a year and the "Child's Index," monthly, at $2.00 a year. It contains much useful information about dying children and women yawns, which must have been very highly prized by the women of that day.

Here is a recipe "To make good coffee out of rye. The rye is to be well cleaned and then boiled soft, but care should be taken that it does not burst. It is afterwards to be dried in the sun, or in an oven, and then burnt like coffee. Turn it about frequently and let it be well browned, but not black. Do not grind fine."

The book does not state whether long or short sweating would do. Long sweating was mostly used then. It consisted solely of homemade molasses. The upper ten used short-sweating every Sunday morning or when company comes. It was brown sugar.

Here is the Confederate government: President, Jefferson Davis, of Miss. Vice Pres., Alex H. Stephens, of Ga. Sec. of State, J. P. Benjamin, of La. "Treas., C. G. Memminger, of S. C."

"W. W. James A. Sedden, Va." "Nav. S. R. Mallory, Fla. Atty. Gen., J. M. Watts, Ala. Postmaster Gen., J. H. Reagan, Tex." It also gives a list of the battles fought in each year and whether the Confederates or Federals were victorious. The Confederates generally won the day. It also gives a brief history of the formation of the Confederate states of America.

Take it all in all this is a very interesting book. It has a great deal of history for a thinking man. It is possibly the best book of its kind that you would give to a child.

A Sure Thing.

It is said that nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all lung and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. B. VanMeire, of Shepherdstown, W. Va., says, "I had a severe case of Bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of, but got no relief. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery cured me absolutely." It is infallible for Croup, Whooping Cough, Grip, Pneumonia and Consumption. Try it. It's guaranteed by Leitner's Drug Store and Johnston Drug Store.

Quick Arrest.

J. A. Gullidge, of Yarbena, Ala., was twice in the hospital from a severe case of piles causing 24 ruptures. After doctors and all remedies failed, Buckner's Arnica Salve quickly arrested further inflammation and cured him. It conquered the piles. Try it. Leitner's Drug Store and Johnston Drug Store.

BELLOUSE PREACHERS.

Dr. Cranfill Draws a Magazine Pistol on Dr. Hayden.

The opening session of the Southern Baptist convention was the result of a sensational encounter between Rev. J. B. Cranfill and Rev. S. A. Hayden at Texas, on the way to the convention. Both are among the delegates.

There has been bad blood between them for some years. Mr. Cranfill is editor of the Texas Baptist Standard, while Mr. Hayden is editor of the Texas Baptist Herald. There has been much rivalry between them. They have been at odds by the work of the denomination as conducted through the boards of the convention. Cranfill has been advocating the organized work while Hayden was against it.

The fight grew so warm that Hayden was refused a seat in the Texas convention. He brought suit against the committee that reported against him. He was awarded thirty thousand dollars damages, but in another trial this was cut down one half. Two other trials were granted, the last decision practically throwing the case out of court.

The feeling between the leaders and others has been very bitter. Cranfill has said more bitter things in his paper and Hayden has said things equally as bitter in his. They have been at odds by the work of the denomination as conducted through the boards of the convention. Cranfill has been advocating the organized work while Hayden was against it.

Yesterday both these preachers were on their way to the convention. They were both in the same sleeper and met in the lavatory. Sharp words passed between them and Cranfill took a pistol from his grip. Hayden seized it and the struggle was on. Two shots were fired, neither doing any damage.

When the train arrived at Texarkana Cranfill was arrested and after a preliminary trial was released on a bond of $1,000. He continued on his way to the convention and Hayden will arrive later. It is very probable that both of them will be denied a seat in the convention. This seems to be the sentiment of a large number of the delegates.—Special to Atlanta Journal.

A dispatch from Texarkana, dated May 12, in the Nashville American says: There was a sensational shooting affair today on the Texas and Pacific train eastward bound. As they were coming to Texarkana, between Revs. J. B. Cranfill and S. A. Hayden, in which Cranfill fired two shots from a magazine pistol at Hayden while the latter was struggling for the possession of the weapon. Neither shot took effect.

The encounter occurred in the lavatory of the sleeper, on which both men were on their way to the Southern Baptist convention at Nashville, Tenn. The Rev. Cranfill was arrested on his arrival here and arraigned before Justice Henry on a charge of assault to murder. He waived examination and was released on $1,000 bond.

Cranfill declined to make a statement. Hayden talked freely, giving the following account in substance:

"I did not know Mr. Cranfill was in the lavatory of the sleeper until I entered to make my toilet. Cranfill began to curse and abuse me in a most vehement manner. He drew a pistol from his grip and pointed the same at me. I seized the weapon by the barrel and in the struggle two shots were fired before I got possession of the pistol. Other passengers interfered, and their prompt action saved my life."

Cranfill left for Nashville this afternoon and Hayden will resume his journey tonight.

The encounter today, it is alleged, was of past differences, legal and personal between the two men. Hayden was accompanied by his wife and daughter and Cranfill by a party of friends.

Battle of the Catawbas.

Theodore McGraw and George Gregory of this city left town to go to Catawba river bridge to fish last Wednesday afternoon and later were followed by Will Wint, and Frank and Walter Adkins, formerly of this city, now of Chester. They appear to have gathered rifles for a trial and of course the whole crowd tried to see how much John barley corn they could consume. From drinking to card playing was but a short step and it was not long until they were engaged in this "pastime." How long this continued is not related, nor is it stated who were the fortunate winners, but it was the fortunate winners, but it was the unfortunate losers who were the losers. McGraw borrowed a pistol from each of the two of the crowd, Walter Adkins being the owner of one, and when he was thus armed, he cocked and pointed one of the guns at Walter Adkins and demanded his money. Adkins reminded him to be careful, that the pistol might go off, but McGraw, still pointing, replied, that if Adkins did not hand out his money it would indeed go off, and suiting his action to the word, fired twice at Adkins, and then turning upon Frank Adkins fired twice at him. This is the report and then too it is said that Wint, who had also been threatened, concluding that distance lends enchantment to the view, left rather hurriedly, when McGraw, who was satisfied with the result of the battle so far, however, McGraw fired upon Frank Adkins twice when he too got out of harm's way, leaving McGraw in undisputed possession of the field. Gregory had fallen by the wayside before the party, who had gotten together after leaving town, reached the river.

Walter Adkins in the meantime had gotten upon the ground and while in a stupor McGraw proceeded to gather up the booty as contraband of war. One report is that he got $32—while another says that the amount was only $10.

Another strange thing about the affair is that the buggy, which had been hired from the Western Home, showed the effects of a severe bombardment, being broken and smashed in such a manner as to show that it must have been in the midst of a savage battle.

Walter Adkins when brought to town that night was treated by Dr. W. G. Stevens. There were two wounds on his head, one under the right eye and another on the forehead, the head which the surgeon at first thought had been made by pistol shots, but he is now of the opinion that the wound under the eye was made by a blow from a pistol, the hammer producing the wound, that on the top of the head, which is a groove in the scalp about two inches long, was made by a pistol ball, but could not be traced to any other source. The man's condition is not serious. This is the story as we have been able to gather it. There is a mystery about the whole affair that can be explained only on the theory that a row occurred and that it grew out of a game of cards. McGraw took leg bail and his side of the story has not been heard. We understand, however, that he intends to surrender to the authorities, when some things which now appear to be strange may be cleared up.—Rock Hill Herald.

Jim Gilmore Captured.

Jim Gilmore was captured at Pursley & Parrott's saw mill, near King's Mountain last Tuesday evening by Sheriff Logan and Messrs. Calvin Purley and C. F. Jordan. Gilmore in the negro who was arrested at Lurleyville last year on the charge of having broken into a house occupied by some unprotected ladies. He had a narrow escape from being lynched at the time and after he was committed to the Chester jail, it was necessary to call out the military company to protect him from violence. He made his escape, but afterwards and nothing had been heard of him since.

Gilmore had been working at the saw mill since early spring, but it was only a few days ago that his identity with the man wanted in Chester became known to the whites. Mr. Calvin Purley was the first man to make the discovery. He promptly notified Sheriff Logan and the raid of Tuesday night was planned at once.

"Feeling pretty sure," said Sheriff Logan in telling about the arrest, "that if we approached the fellow in daylight, he would run, and knowing the custom of the saw people I arranged to get there about supper time. The hands live in little shacks, without windows and up to the door you need not let any body get by you unless you want to."

"It turned out about as I expected. There were the negroes asleep, and I began asking first whether some lumber in which I pretended to be interested. Then I wanted to know whether any of my old saw mill niggers were there. I asked about one named Sneyd, who one and then another until in this way we spotted Gilmore. He did not try to deny his identity, and we started on for Yorkville with him."

Gilmore is about thirty years of age, ginger cake color and a fine physical specimen, just such a fellow as is wanted about a saw mill to do heavy lifting. Sneyd, who was coming from Chester Wednesday morning and took the prisoner back and Chester on the freight train.—Yorkville Enquirer.

A Dream Interdicted.

A laborer at the Dundee harbor told his wife on awakening, a curious dream which he had during the night. He dreamed that he saw coming toward him, in order, the first one was very fat, and was followed by two lean rats, the rear rat being blind.

The dreamer was greatly perplexed as he thought of it, for it has been understood that to dream of rats denotes coming calamity. He appealed to his wife concerning this. She, poor woman, could not help him. His son, a sharp lad who heard his father tell the story, volunteered to be the interpreter. "The fat rat," he said, "is the man who keeps the public house, that you go to often, and the two lean ones are me and my mother, and the blind one is myself, father."—Scotch Farmer.

In fact, she is never troubled with rheumatism at all times able to walk. An occasional application of Pain Balm keeps away the pain that she was formerly troubled with."—T. S. Leitner.

Using the Press.

How the liquor men use the press in advancing their interests may be seen from a circular sent out to many editors by the superintendent of correspondence of the Brewers and Distillers' Association.

After speaking of the dangers of the "trade" by the activity of its totes, the temperance people, the circular proceeds:

In order, therefore, to protect ourselves and our business it is imperative that every man possible should self-protect himself.

Our best friend is the newspaper. This being the case, we are going to make it worth something to them to stand by us in this thing. I have recently been put in charge of this department of work, with instructions to spare neither pains nor money in this, one of the hardest fights we have ever had to put up with.

What will you charge us for the use of say one of your editorial columns per week, we to furnish material, you to publish it as editorial matter?

Of course, we will have to be conservative in handling this organization, except where we are sure of our grounds, then we will make every word cut to serve our purpose. And this matter will have to be kept sub rosa. This is my instruction, and I have to make a confidant of you and I can make it pay you.

Please let me have your terms as soon as possible, money to accompany each article. Yours truly,

That many editors have yielded to the temptation and editors have got their price is evident from the editorial articles that from time to time have appeared in some of the daily papers of the great cities setting forth direful results of prohibition, the injustice of dispensing with the army canteen; garbled statistics to show the utter failure of prohibition every where. The same thing is said. On the contrary, they seemed the product of an anxious, conscientious patriot, seeking to do service to his country.—The National Advocate.

Filling Rush Orders.

FINDLAY, O., May 22.—As the result of an explosion in the two dining-rooms of the Lake Shore Novelty company's plant here to-day, seven persons are known to be dead; five are seriously hurt that recovery is believed to be impossible and 12 or 15 are injured badly. From reports of the physicians ten of the less seriously injured may die as a result of blood poisoning from the potash that was blown into their bodies. Two employees are missing and are supposed to have been blown to atoms.

The Lake Shore Novelty works plant covered nearly ten acres of ground in the southwest part of the city and employed nearly 200 men, women and children. Railroad torpedoes and four of July explosives were manufactured.

Owing to the large rush of orders the officials of the plant requested the employees to report for duty to-day. About 300 complied with the request.

The report goes on to show that the buildings and plant were entirely demolished, the materials being scattered for half a mile around it will be noted that it was not a mere explosion, but a case of the officials to request their employees to report for duty on the Lord's day, but a degree of prosperity for which they were unpriored, "the large rush of orders."

It appears therefore that a Sabbath spent in thanksgiving would have been in order. Whether the disaster came as a visitation of the business for their ingratitude and sin or not, there are some striking facts connected with the disaster.

First, the official representatives of the owners—presumably with the owners' approval—trampled upon a divine command, and their property was destroyed in a way that is usually designated as providential.

Second, the disaster did not happen when all the employees were at their homes or when all were at their work, but when they were divided into two classes, those who refused to work on the Sabbath and those who had complied with the request and had smothered their scruples, if they had any, the former being in places of safety and the latter at their work and exposed to the danger. It appears, however, that 20 more, who probably had been wrestling with their consciences, were on their way to the works.

While the employees who escaped may not all have stayed out of the works that day from conscientious motives, they could hardly fail to be impressed by the apparent significance of the occurrence, and it is pretty safe to predict that hereafter they will be less inclined than ever to be participants in crimes with their employers in stealing the Lord's time in which to husband the prosperity with which the Lord is blessing them.

Mr. J. Smith Hardin does not believe that the cotton acreage in this section is greater than in past years, and he does not expect a large yield. He says nobody has ever seen a heavy yield from a late crop.

"The people will control the St. Louis convention and the Kansas City platform will be reaffirmed, in my judgment," says W. J. Bryan. Fortunately for the democratic party, in his judgment that is about the only place it will be reaffirmed.

The following criticism from the Lenoir Topic seems reasonable: Some of our state newspapers have lately criticized the action of several bars in the state for passing resolutions commendatory of a judge who may be holding court in their county. The practice is surely a reprehensible one, and respecting judge will countenance such proceedings.

Suicide of Banker Plant.

Robt. H. Plant, of Macon, Ga., president of the two banks recently closed, committed suicide Saturday. He had been sick and confined to bed for two months. He got the nurse to assist him to the bath room, then he went out of a door upon the back porch and shot himself through the heart. He had $1,000,000 insurance, $800,000 of which was for the benefit of his creditors. The deficit in the private bank is over $84,000. The condition of the national bank has not been reported yet. RED RACKET STORE

When A. T. Stewart, the great genius and millionaire merchant of New York City passed over into the great unknown eternal, his mammoth business fell into the hands of a generation of sports. These wide awake and seemingly hang-on fellows, college graduates if you please, away up in Greek, Latin and Trigonometry, really and truly could better maul rails or plow land than manage the intricate mysteries connected with mercantile affairs. This undiscovered army of swindlers spent more money in one half than A. T. Stewart himself could possibly make in a week. This state of affairs was kept up until the sheriff and his marshals wound up the ball. Mercantile history has repeated itself thousands of times since A. T. Stewart's day. In the whirlwind of his restless sweep, in the maddest of mercantile affairs, in the arena of trade war strife, in the whirlwind of pleasure and temptation in the great cities of the North but few merchants out of a thousand escape destruction. When bankruptcy and ruin overtake the victims, the melancholy song of the Ancient Mariner is the final scene. These splendid stocks of general merchandise are sold out at prices way below the actual cost of production. All this summer the Red Racket Store will be flooded with almost every conceivable class of merchandise, gathered in from just such sources as we have mentioned, and we want everybody to visit our store and see these goods as they fall into our hands. From the auction block with the price split in two.

The Monument Work.

Col. Reed, as chairman of the central monument committee, sent out the following letter May 21st to the chairmen of the several district committees:

Dear Sir:—You are hereby earnestly requested to make a full report to us of the work done by your committee up to June 1st, 1904, as early after that date as may be possible. We will publish a full report of the work done by all committees in the first issue of the county papers that comes out after that day of June and we shall expect your report in time to go in with the others. Be careful to show clearly in your report just how much of the work you have accomplished in cash, how much in unpaid subscriptions and how much from sale of buttons. It is our purpose to lay the corner stone of the monument on or about Nov. 1st, next, and it will be necessary for us to have a certain amount of funds in hand by that time. In order that our work may not be retarded, then, it is most important that each committee not only do something but that they report to us promptly exactly what has been done. The publication of our reports monthly will not only inspire enthusiasm in our work, and keep the noblest before our people, but it will make our work lighter in every way. Some people are not doing what we and the public both have expected of them in this matter, and when our next report comes out they are going to feel rather small when they see what others have done. Now we are not speaking of committees alone, we have in mind some subscribers too.

Friends, let us get to work with a will. The monument is going to be built and the corner stone will be laid about Nov. 1st, 1904, and you will see it to point to it and say you did your duty by it. Yours for the Monument.

J. W. Reed, Chairman, Com. Union and Fort's School House.

The Rev. A. H. Atkins will preach at Urie next Sabbath at 11 o'clock, and at Ford's school house at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. R. L. Hayes and son, Master Ernest Hayes, and Mrs. J. H. Robinson, of Charlotte, arrived this morning to visit Mrs. W. M. Simpson.

New Teaching.

Teachers for the 6th and 7th grades in the Chester public schools have not been elected yet. The only new teachers elected as yet are Miss Williams, of Greenville, and Mr. Graham, of Charlotte. Many of the children will be glad to know that Miss Wilson, who was here part of last year, has been re-elected.

Chickens wanted at Magdalene hospital.

Waiker-Pant.

The many friends of Mr. W. N. Walker and Miss Sadie Pant, of Union, were surprised yesterday afternoon to learn that they had eloped and gotten married.

Walker went over to Union on Sunday, and he and Miss Pant went off presumably for a pleasure drive yesterday afternoon, but they continued to drive until they arrived at Carlisle, where they found the Rev. John Bass Shelton awaiting them.

And in a matter of time, which they sat in their buggy, in the middle of the street, Mr. Shelton uttered them in happy wedlock. The elopement was not an account of parental objection, but simply a unique way of springing a surprise upon their many friends.

Mr. Walker is one of Chester's best business young men, and Mrs. Walker is the charming daughter of the Hon. John T. Fant, of Union. They are receiving congratulations today from their numerous friends, and The Lantern is glad to be numbered among the hosts wishing them a long, happy and prosperous life. They have taken apartments at the residence of Mrs. I. N. Cross, on Pinckney street, where they will be at home to all their friends.

Ashcraft's Eureka Liniment

This Liniment will remove spasm, splint, ringbones, and all cartilaginous growths, when applied in the earlier stages of the disease, and will relieve the lameness even in chronic cases. One of the most common lameness among horses and mules is sprain of the back tendon, caused by over-loading or hard driving. Ashcraft's Liniment is a never-failing remedy. The Liniment is also extensively used for chronic rheumatism and for all kinds of stiff joints.

For "scratches" Ashcraft's Eureka Liniment is without an equal. A few applications is all that is necessary to cure this disease in its worst form.

Owing to the wonderful anti-septic qualities, the Eureka Liniment should be used in the treatment of all tumors and sore eruptions of the skin. It is both healing and cleansing, entirely destroying all parasites and putrefaction. This Liniment acts as a counter-irritant and stimulant. Price 50c. bottle. Sold by Johnston Drug Store.

WHAT THIS MAN SAYS.

Only Re-Echoes the Sentiments Of Thousands in Our Republic.
The Chester reader is asked to thoroughly investigate following. This can readily be done, for the gentleman whose statement is published below will only be too glad to answer any communication mailed to him if the writer really suffers from the annoying consequences which always attend inactive or weakened kidneys. Leo Bishop, proprietor of a general store, on Mill St., Lawrence, says: "I am from experience, not a Doctor's Kidney Pills. My back and kidneys have given me great trouble for a long time, not only costing me untold money, but costing me a great many dollars. There was a dull tooth-ache like pain constantly across the small of my back and after sitting for a bit I could scarcely get up. Sharp shooting pain sometimes ran down to first one knee and then another, and I never knew when it was going to strike me. The secretions from the kidneys were too frequent to answer and disturbed my night rest so that I would arise in the morning feeling worse than I did the night before. I tried numerous remedies but did not get any positive relief from anything until I learned about Doan's Kidney Pills. The next day after using them I felt better and I continued taking them until the kidney secretions became regular and normal. I could go to bed and get a good night's rest and back-ache in my back disappeared. Plenty more proof like this from Chester people. Call for Free Book, Drug Co.'s store and ask what their customers report."

Beckhamville Echoes.
BECKHAMVILLE, May 20.—A good rail fell through out this section Tuesday and Wednesday. The crops needed it very much to bring the cotton and corn up. Some that have been planted for some time and all did not come up has started to come since the rain. Some have started to chopping cotton while those who did not get a good start have begun sowing. We had frost last week.

I don't hear of many fish being caught owing to the low water. The Catwaba and Fishing Creek have not been visited by the seiners as yet.

We must give a picnic here this summer at Thor's Old Spring, as there are good surroundings with plenty of shade and water and interesting curiosities of our forefathers, which add much interest and grandeur to the wild scenery, while the waters team with fish that can be had by seining. Thus the time could be cheerfully spent. Even the jolly candidate would enjoy fish soup as well as beef soup and hash.

Miss Pearl Gwin and brother, Master Harper, from near Blackstock, visited here not long ago.

Not Without Parallel.
Mr. A. L. Whitman, of the St. Luke's section of the county, was in Newberry this week and told of a wonderful pig which he has on his place. It is a strange story, and probably without parallel, but Mr. Whitman vouches for it and has the pig at home to prove it.

About two weeks ago a calf was born unto one of Mr. Whitman's cows. This calf was like any other calf and in yet like any other calf.

But it is not in connection with the calf that the strange part of the story comes in. In the lot with the calf and its mother were two pigs, young and small. After the calf came Mr. Whitman noticed that one pig was fast outgrowing the other. Both were receiving the same food and the fact that one was gaining on the other in weight and size could not be accounted for by Mr. Whitman. Then Mr. Whitman also noticed that sometimes this cow gave less milk than at other times and sometimes none at all. Neither could this be accounted for. Mr. Whitman put the two things together and still could not make anything out of it. One day this week, he says, he walked into the lot and beheld as strange a sight as he ever saw, and the mystery was solved. The fat pig was sucking the cow.

Mr. Whitman says that one of his pigs now weighs sixty pounds. The other weighs thirty.—Newberry Herald and News.

We had so often heard of pigs sucking cows that we supposed it was a rather common occurrence. What was probably a much more uncommon thing was the case reported by County Treasurer W. O. Guy and published in The Lantern some time ago of a calf sucking a sow.

Mr. Wiggs in Court.
LOUISVILLE, April 26.—Mrs. Bass, the original "Mrs. Wiggs of the cabbage patch," was in the police court today charged with throwing a jar of slop on the head of Mrs. Emily Smith. The scene occurred in the rear of Mrs. Bass' domicile whither Mrs. Smith went after repeated knocks on the front door which failed to gain a response.

Mrs. Bass contended her life has been made miserable by people of all sections and climes who were prompted by curiosity. Mrs. Smith maintained she was prompted by a spirit of charity gaining the impression from the book that Mrs. Bass was in need. The case was postponed till Friday.

There are some 4,000,000 beach-actors in the United States. Rev. Madison C. Peters expressed the opinion in a sermon in Philadelphia a day or two ago that the "extravagance and incompetence of modern young women" was the cause of this condition of affairs.—Savannah News.

GRADUAL DECLINE

This is the fate of sufferers from Kidney trouble, as the disease is so insidious that often people have serious Kidney trouble without knowing the real cause of their illness, as diseased kidneys allow the impurities to stay in the system and attack the other organs. This accounts for the many different symptoms of Kidney Disease.
